The Carmel Pine Cone

49th Year, No. 9 | THURSDAY, 7 MARCH, 1963 | Copy 15c

Editor's Window

Today, I have submitted my resignation as Clerk of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. It will be effective on 1 April.

I have determined upon this course because, as both City Clerk and editor of this newspaper, I could not always confront forthrightly the issues with which I want to contend, the beliefs to which I am passionately devoted and the projects which I zealously wish to pursue. I have decided that it is now time to free my hands, my mind and my heart for the tasks which I have embraced.

This is the way in which I choose to do it.

I surrender the office with reluctance. Only another person similarly honored by its burdens and warmed by its triumphs could appreciate this. Stern, responsible and compassionate towards something far more important than the convenience of the moment, it is a public office in Carmel to which nothing else is comparable.

A City Council meets from time to time. In a consciencious frenzy it provides for next month and apologizes for last month, then staggers off into the night, leaving the Clerk with the dialectical shambles of this curious explosion of citizen government. Because there is no one else to do the job

Storm Clouds Over Carmel Valley

Proclamation

BY THE AUTHORITY VESTED IN ME AS MAYOR OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA, CALIFORNIA, I HEREBY PROCLAIM SATURDAY, THE 9TH DAY OF MARCH, 1963, AS "TREE PLANTING DAY" IN CARMEL.

The preservation of the forested character of Carmel is a matter of prime concern to every resident of this city. Only with the cooperation and assistance of the residents of Carmel can we maintain the stand of pine trees, both on private and public property, which is a unique virtue of our environment.

Property owners are urged to help the city and the Forestry Commission by coming to the post office parking lot on Saturday, 9 March, 1963, between the hours of 9 o'clock a.m. and 1 o'clock p.m., where they will be given seedling bare-root pines with planting instructions.

Unless today we think of our children and grandchildren, they cannot have the privilege of cutting trees that our generation has enjoyed in Carmel.

DATED this 6th day of March, 1963.

EBEN WHITTLESEY, MAYOR,
City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California

With the population of Carmel Valley swelling by a steady 10 per cent each year, and close to the 5,000 mark now, it appears as though the residents and businessmen alike should fall out and regroup for the purpose of modifying their thinking.

Carmel Valley can no longer be considered a rural area.

The change has been slow and insidious. Almost unnoticed. But the fact is today the Valley is no more countrified than Del Monte Monte Forest.

Of course, horses may be ridden here and there in Carmel Valley, but there is now a definite need for bridle trails if one wants even an hour's ride. Hunting a la open-country style is ended. All land is privately owned and posted. Hunters must go far past what is known as Carmel Valley proper and deep into Los Padres National Forest for their sport, unless they have a friend with the necessary acreage. Even then it has become dangerous to use a high-powered sporting rifle in the area.

The river fishing, except at the mouth of the Carmel River, or on the impounded waters of the Los Padres and San Clemente Dams, is finished. Dundee! Even before completion of the county-designed four-lane highway, Carmel Valley simply cannot any longer be considered country.

Sure, there are thousands of undeveloped acres still used for cattle grazing, but land developers are crouched and waiting, ample funds in one hand, use permits in the other, and zoning ordinances in their favor.

Hacienda Carmel, a retirement home, is almost sold out. Edgar Haber and Associates, land developers, have just about completed plans for a fine golf course and an ultra-smart urban housing community of 275 units in connection with it. Indications are that these units will sell out as fast as they are buuilt. Work should start within one month. This alone will add close to 750 individuals to the Valley population, and another thousand cars to the daily Valley road traffic.

Carmel Valley Manor, further east, is in high gear, with many of the roads already completed, and even though still under development, already found to be too small. So it has now applied for permission to use an additional 15 acres across the Carmel Valley Road.

Paul Jones' plans for his Rancho Fiesta retirement community also calls for a hospital. It is within one Quarter-mile of the projected Emerald Glen Golf Club scheduled for construction on the adjacent Reuben Tice property.

We have progressed in this examination just past the Farm Center, and have already pointed to an increase of close to 2,000 people, and therefore an additional 2,000 cars on the road. A Road

Operation Update

"Operation Update," the third annual series of morning lectures by MPC faculty members for the women of the area, co-sponsored, as on two previous occasions, by the college and the American Association of University Women, Monterey Peninsula Branch, is scheduled for 14, 21 and 28 March and 4 April—Thursdays all.

All lectures will be delivered at 10 a.m. in the library lecture hall on the MPC campus, according to Mrs. Richard H. Rice and Mrs. Harold M. Wright, 1963 "Update" co-chairmen for the AAUW. There will be a coffee break at each, with Mrs. Sam Karas and her hospitality committee serving, followed by a question period. Each session will end at noon.

All women are invited to attend this "college refresher course" without charge, and no tickets will be required. A baby-sitting service will be provided in the library gallery, with Mrs. B. G. Moises heading a group of AAUW volunteers.

Speakers, each of whom will present new concepts and information in his field, will include: Morgan Stock, chairman of MPC's drama and speech department and a well-known local actor and director, on "Modern Trends in Theater," 14 March; Stephen A. James, MPC electronics department chairman, on "Electronics in Space," 21 March; Diane Smith, physical education and dance instructor, on "Dance: A Creative Art Experience," 28 March; and Dr. Louis Balsam, a member of MPC's emeriti faculty in the social science, on "Primitive Rebirth," 4 April.

Sports Cars

BY ED LESLIE

Laguna Seca Races are underway! Much of importance has already been accomplished by the Sports Car Racing Association of Monterey Peninsula (SCRAMP) these past weeks. Let me explain.

SCRAMP is a committee of public spirited citizens (I'm one) who takes care of all the many facets of running a road race on the track at Fort Ord's Laguna Seca. The lease given by the Army allows two events per year. The people of the Peninsula originally subscribed to guarantees of $90,000 to build the track and most of the debt is now cleared. Now, the committee, through its executive committee is busy with many early morning breakfast meetings and many special luncheon meetings setting things in order to have two races at Laguna this year.

We decided to use SCCA again in October for the staging of the big professional Laguna Seca Grand Prix (with about an $80,000 budget — it's big business!). There will be amateur races on Saturday, and Friday the pro-goers will practice for Sunday's big two-heat $20,000 race. Just like last fall's race, EXCEPT — we are the sponsors this time.

No San Francisco Examiner giving the impression of co-sponsoring the event. SCRAMP has served notice of recision of their contract with the paper because of violations of the contract.

SCRAMP will also do the publicity through a new public relations agent. We did not renew with von Lowenfeldt this year, but have signed the William Finefrock (finnyfrok) organization.

Finefrock has many years in road racing, is close to all SCCA events, handles the publication of race results and news releases, and publishes the award winning "wheel" magazine for the SCCA members.

Next item: At a professional race, such as ours in the Fall, it is quite important that the top drivers in the world compete. If not, we really don't draw the crowd or provide the championship type of Sports Car Grand Prix that we intend to present. Many arrangements have to be made with the European Grand Prix drivers, such as Hill, Gurney, McClaren, Clark and Brabham to insure their arrival. They are professionals and do not come for nothing. Our purse is getting large enough that we do entice them, but all the arrangements must be made now, to fit schedules, etc. I have been appointed by SCRAMP to do this bit, and with the help of Jerry Lefler and Don Wester, and all the free advice we can gather from everyone concerned we will ensure you the best of competitors for our boys to race against.

Next week, Mr. Glenn Davis from the L.A. Times will meet with us, as will Mr. Ren Jones of the Pacific Raceways, in Kent, Washington. Our purpose will be to decide how to unite our efforts in securing drivers for our three big races, Pacific Grand Prix in Kent, Riverside and Laguna here. We'll then get off our offers and start the publicity on the entrants.

The Laguna Race Program is also a big issue that is to be printed locally by Herald Printers this year, if everything jells with those concerned. This will be a return of some more money to the Peninsula and is worthy of note. Some 12,000 programs are sold to help defray our costs and we want a better program with more money going here than before.

Track preparation is already being arranged and all the developments promised last year are being started. Pit location should be better, larger and cleaner. Some safety factors involved with washouts or other weather damage are now being assessed. So-o-o, be advised that the work is going on, the races will be held, and they'll be better than ever!

For the next two weeks Mr. Rose will do some sports car road tests of our products for you, as I have gotten entered at the Sebring 12 Hour Race, to drive the factory prepared Jaguar XK-E. I'm thrilled and have already gone on a diet to help the power to weight ratio! The three Jags — they'll be roadsters with hardtops — have the biggest possible engines, and have had their weight pared down to just 2030 lbs.

It will go! Tell you more on March 25th.

There will be two races, the first an amateur event in June staged by the San Francisco Region of the Sports Car Club of America. This two-day event will be a divisional championship contest — one of two for the year in Northern California. Points toward the new United States amateur championship will be awarded, and drivers seeking this award will be here from all over the nation.

WHAT GOES ON

Red Lights

The city of Carmel has just expended $23,000 for a new fire truck to modernize their equipment, only to be notified by the California Highway Patrol that the present lights have been declared illegal. Brand new lights. Hardly been used. Only gone to a couple of fires where they saw limited use. And now to the bone yard.

Of course the company involved in the sale of the truck will make the light replacements free of charge, but the city itself must go to the expense of changing the lights on the other trucks.

This all came about through the zeal of Senator Fred Farr (D. Carmel), who sponsored a bill in 1961 to standardize the lights on all emergency vehicles, which is now being enforced throughout the state. It means that ambulances, sheriff department emergency cars, and all safety equipment will undergo changes.

Fire Chief Bob Smith hazarded a guess that the cost throughout California would be in the neighborhood of $1,500,000, which is a lot of money for what strikes us as a rather unnecessary expenditure.

CARMEL TOURNEY ON BOARDS TODAY

Although not overly blessed with talent this year, the hoopsters of Carmel Hi closed with a rush to carry off four straight league victories and finish in third place in the league standings.

With their fortunes definitely on the upturn, they are looking forward to competing in the 16th Annual Carmel High Invitational Tourney which gets under way at 4:30 Thursday in the Carmel gymnasium.

Most of the invited contestants have trounced the Padres during the regular season but there is a feeling that the squad was late in finding themselves and were beginning to jell as a team at the end of the playing year.

They take on tough Palma High of Salinas, at 9:30 p.m. on Thursday and if they get over that hurdle, meet the winner of the San Lorenzo Valley-Gustine jousting. San Lorenzo, which tied 6-4 in the CCAL-B Division with Carmel, has lost an important cog in their machine. Jim Coddington, six-foot-five, and always a threat, is out with a broken ankle.

Other Thursday games pair the Lancers of St. Francis with the Pacific Grove Breakers. The Lancers, who compete in the fast Bay Area league swept to the Invitational Tourney last year and are co-favorites with Live Oak of Morgan Hill, who will be competing here for the first time. Larry Scheidigger, their center, is one of the leading scorers in the league.

St. Francis and Pacific Grove go at 4:30 p.m. followed at 6:00 p.m. by Junipero Memorial and Live Oak, with San Lorenzo taking on Gustine at 7:30 p.m.

Games will be played at 4:30, 6:00, 7:30 and 9:00 on Friday, with the Consolation play-off at 7:30 on Saturday; and the championship finals at 9:00 p.m.

POLITICS

A Man For Mayor

The Pine Cone may be the first with this item, for I haven't seen it even hinted at in the SF dailies: Ed Mancuso, Public Defender in San Francisco, is definitely going to run for Mayor against incumbent George Christopher and John F. Shelley. This information comes from at least two unimpeachable sources. SF papers, please copy. If you know what's news for you.

HEALTH

K O Polio

Well, Old Man Polio gets his third and, we hope, last clop on the chops on Sunday, 10 March, at Carmel High. Reeling badly from the first two belts, Type Three vaccine, dispensed via sugar cube, should take care of old polio himself this time.

A successful Sabin Sunday coming up, with 90% of the population expecting to participate, will mean that all forms of one of the most dreaded diseases we know will be completely and permanently eradicated from our country. So having set him up with a good old one-two, now is the time to go in and finish him.

PAINTING

Von Ruhs Show

A show of 22 oils entitled "Imagery and Poetry in Paint," by Marlinde von Ruhs, Carmel Valley painter, is on exhibit in the de Saisset Art Gallery at the University of Santa Clara through 25 March.

Miss von Ruhs, a native of Austria, paints, according to one reviewer, "with sharp line and hot pigment."

Among The Pines

Aliotti Twins Arrive

Even since a pine tree fell through the roof of the Nicholas Aliottis' house on Santa Fe near Fourth during the big storm at the end of January, the Pine Cone, which was on the spot at the time, has taken an avuncular interest in the young couple. Now we are pleased to report that the Aliottis are the proud parents of twin daughters, Anna and Maria, who were born on 24 February at the Community Hospital.

The little girls are welcomed by unmerous relatives, among them two sets of great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Aliotti of Monterey, and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Cowen of Sonora; Mrs. Eddie Fischer of Carmel, and D. E. Coggins of Oakland, grandparents. Baby-sitting prospects should look bright with a quintet of young aunts: Gay, Joyanne and Colleen Coggins, and Janet and Maria Aliotti, all of Carmel.

A Son For Bayleses

Hugh Bayless, administrative assistant to the City Clerk, and Mrs. Bayless greeted the birth of their second son, Graham Keith Cameron Bayless, on 22 February at the Community Hospital. Their older son, Scott, eight years old, is a Sunset School student.

Mrs. Kelsey Kitchel Bayless of Ocala, Florida, and Mrs. Myrtle Smith of Dallas, Texas, are the proud grandmothers.

February Babies

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Bernstein of Carmel Valley became the parents of a daughter, Rebecca Renee, on 22 February, at the Community Hospital.

A son, George Retteveel, Jr., was born to Mr. and Mrs. George R. Dovolis of Carmel on 23 February at the Community Hospital.

John Henry, IV, was born to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cook, III, of Carmel, on 17 February at the Community Hospital.

A Daughter For Hamils

"Everybody was happy she was a girl except the boys and they didn't mind too much." So read one of the congratulatory notes from his fifth grade students to Thomas A. Hamil, River School teacher, on the occasion of the birth of Kennon Joan Hamil. Mr. and Mrs. Hamil's daughter was born on Washington's Birthday (conveniently choosing a perpetual holiday for her birth date) at the Community Hospital.

The little girl's two big brothers are Sean, three, and David, almost two. Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Gamble of Oakland and Mrs. Arthur C. Hamil of Portland, Oregon, are grandparents.

The only contretemps to an otherwise happy event was that Mr. Hamil came down with pneumonia just before his daughter was born. "So the children at school had two things to be excited about," says Mrs. Hamil. "But the neighbors were wonderful and took care of us all. Tom is already back at school, teaching half days."

The Lively Arts

Anouilh Comedy Delights Audience At Tantamount

BY SALLY H. TUDOR

Anouilh was a prolific writer. "Le Voyageur Sans Bagage" is not one of his best plays. The story of a young man, an amnesic searching for his past, with five million families eager to identify him, seems to collapse into a rather facile ending. Meanwhile, however, Anouilh with his superb feel for the theater, provides many laughs with the audience in the know about the situations while the characters remain ignorant, but at the same time there is almost a satire on family life. A barely perceptible undercurrent of tragedy shows through as Gaston is unable to face up to his past, and renounces it.

Francois Dupuis, completely at home in Gaston's role, showed him to be bored with this never ending search, which has left him listless and aimless. Yet Dupuis allowed Gaston to reveal flashes of feeling as the warmth of friends and relatives moved within his grasp. Gaston was rarely off the stage and Dupuis must be congratulated for sustaining the role so professionally. Micheline Beatty carried off La Duchesse Dupont Dufort with an air truly distingue. She was indeed La Duchesse in "la grand maniere." One felt that volubility would have been one of La Duchesse's traits, but occasionally this was excessive. Jacques de La Ferriere was a deferential maitre d'Hotel and Maitre Huspar, (Yves Mengin) was a suitably effacing foil for La Duchesse.

The Renaud family convinced one that Gaston's reluctance to join them was reasonable. Gladys Bukszpan as Madame Renaud made us feel that she was a mother in name only and restricted her emotions accordingly. Louis Vorms made a stiff George Renaud, uncertain in his feelings towards his younger brother, who had indeed given him cause to feel unbrotherly. Marcelle Viale was an emotional Valentine Renaud, but, as the ex-lover of her husband's brother, the part might perhaps have been played with more subtle overtones.

The servants were a colorful group. Jennine Basileau as Juliette delighted the audience with her compelling naivete, although the scene with Gaston should have been played at a faster tempo. Olivier Le Roux made a charming little boy and Maitre Pickwick must be congratulated on his French accent!

When the curtains opened, a burst of applause greeted the attractive decor which created an ambiance perfect for the mood of the play. After only one rehearsal in the Tantamount Theater, kindly put at the disposal of the company by John Geddis and Francois Martin, the polished finish of the performance was remarkable. Special mention must be made of the many hours which Jean Gabriel must have devoted to make this evening possible.

It is to be hoped that Le Theatre des Rues can be persuaded to leave San Francisco in order to spend another week end in the Peninsula before too long—so that another production can be enjoyed by those who appreciate French.

Where There's Life

By Andre Hope

So, go fly a kite! I mean this in the very nicest way. Isn't it just the weather for it — and how long since you have? Sunday we "did" the Seventeen-Mile Drive, and between the beauties of the sea, the pungency of "seal rock" (or is it "seal rock" where the birds are, and "bird rock" where the seals are?), driftwood and stone scouting, we watched, entranced, a covey of kite-flyers. There is nothing quite like it to be, in some disembodied way, a part of the wind, the day and the sky. Tomorrow we'll start shopping for a kite, a very spectacular kite — the John Glenn of all kites. The men and boys will fly it triumphantly. At the end of the day "Charlie Brown" Hope, namely me, will anchor it safely and permanently on a passing tree branch, where it will flutter as bravely as a victor's pennant after a hard battle. I have this odd notion that women should never fly kites. I also believe they should try. A nice thing to give up for Lent: "not flying kites"....

A nice thing to give for Lent: something in the way of interesting food. . . May I suggest for a luncheon or a light supper a perfect charmer of a French recipe: Coeur a la Creme. Add to two pounds of small-curd cottage cheese, salt to taste. Beat until creamy gradually adding two cups of whipping cream Smash a large square of cream cheese. Blend all together until smooth. Line a sieve with cheesecloth and pour in mixture. Drain on a plate or in a bowl overnight in the refrigerator. Next day place in any available mold (though traditionally you should use a heart-shaped one). When ready to serve, unmold on a platter; garnish with frozen raspberries or strawberries (which may be soaked in brandy or kirsch) or fresh pineapple or tomatoes — the latter two may be augmented with tiny shrimp. Serve with croissant or brioche, as delicately designed by the Patisserie Boissiere in the Carmel Plaza. This may be accompanied by tea, coffee or a nice, light, white wine. . .

Still in the seasonal mood, it's a good time to think about decorating the interior of the house as well as that of the man of same. Spring and summer are the seasons to bring growing plants into the house, as well as branches of flowering fruit trees and the determinedly gay flowers of the time. If you have monotone walls and basic furnishings it's refreshing to use pillows and drapes in shades of green, green golds, teal blues, yellow greens, pure whites and earthy browns; in materials that will resist the invasion of guests and homing children. This is the time, as well, to use your collection of rocks, shells, sculpture, paintings with an outdoor feeling. Go native, so to speak. If you don't collect rocks, shells and driftwood, you should. Just bending over to pick 'em up is great for the waistline, etc. . .

In connection with our occasional pot-shot 'at decorating, here is the new contest as promised. Send me, care of the Carmel Pine Cone, a description of the worst object d'eyesore in your home. The one judged the most ghastly by a select panel of people with sore eyes

Letters to The Editor

THE SURFERS, A COLORFUL GROUP

Dear Sir:

The following paragraph appeared in last week's issue of the Carmel Pine Cone without a byline.

"Sometimes we think Fort Ord should send a detail over here to police up the area after the weekend influx of soldiers pull out. Of course, the surfers contribute their share of debris, but nothing much can be done about them. They are completely without pride, and make a fetish of looking raunchy, living raunchy, and we suppose, in all reality, are just raunchy. However, they are fast losing ground with their penchant for leaving old socks and other personal items in public restrooms, and it could be that this summer will see a change. Maybe close off the public restrooms at 6 p.m., or close the beach to surfing."

To the Editor of the paper, who must be responsible for all such articles, I submit this outraged reply as one surfer's side of the story.

He is guilty of branding, labeling, and lacking knowledge of the facts. I believe if he saw 20 or 30 high school, college, or older aged people in a group at the beach, and 5 or 6 surfboards in close proximity, he would brand the whole group as "surfers".

My definition of a surfer is one who owns a surfboard and/or one who can ride the waves with some proficiency. To begin with, the Editor correlates the soldier with the surfer and colors the surfer the incorrigible of the two. There are approximately 20 full-fledged surfers in the Carmel area, as compared with 20,000 (?) soldiers at Fort Ord.

Two years ago, a large sign (barbaric by Carmel standards) was impaled on the main beach warning of a $500 fine for littering the beach. Not one surfer has been arrested for the crime he claims that the surfers have committed.

To have slung dirt at the surfers he must have noticed them. Yes, the surfers have always been a colorful group. We have had our pictures in the Monterey Peninsula Herald many times, as we rode the waves, and have been written up for rescues. If we ride the waves between 8th and 13th streets, scores of cars, tourist and local alike, park to watch us. Hundreds of photographers have taken pictures and Carmelites wonder how we brave the cold (48°) water en masse.

The surfers are a very athletic group and feel the need for an athletic outlet. But since there is a city ordinance against the Young Men's Christian Association building a "Y" with its recreational facilities in Carmel, some of these people who felt the need for one started surfing, it is an inexpensive sport. To surf, all you need is a surfboard, bathing suit, a sense of balance and skill of swimming. The beach is the surfers' country club, the swimming suit, his tux. But there is no status seeking, just the ocean and himself.

Since the innovation of the surfboard in Carmel, the surfers have constructed two vollyball courts, (one of which was washed out to sea during the last storm) and last year completely raked clear the 11th street area of driftwood, seaweed, kelp, broken glass and miscellaneous debris. The surfers asked the city for an extra garbage can to be placed at 9th street to control the over load of debris; the city complied. The surfers are the ONLY ones who have volunteered to perform rescues in heavy seas, fighting treacherous rip tides to save drowning persons (approximately 20 in the last 4 years). They have also tried to cooperate at all times with Carmel police in all matters pertaining to the beach.

Very few people use the beach to its fullest extent for recreation as the surfers do. Surfers are a living part of the beach.

The beach means more to them than to most people because they use the beach in so many ways. He is with his companion, the ocean, day in, day out, rain or shine, deserted days to over-crowded days. He migrates in overcrowded mid-summer and may be found far from the crowded conditions of the main beach to the solitude of an uncrowded part of the beach.

The surfers have done an above average job of keeping the beach clean, and have picked up the debris after everyone else has gone home, for years. But we will not help expunge the city's debt to clean the beach by our help and control when we are made the whipping boy.

Most of the litter is caused by persons drinking alcoholic beverages on the beach. There is a city ordinance against this but it is not enforced. Why?

As for closing the beach to surfing, all I can say is that the cooperative link between the surfers and local officials would be completely broken.

Ron Widel

(Editor's Comment: Overwhelming rhetoric, Mr. Widel, and I welcome it in the pages of the Pine Cone. Your protest, added to that of outraged service people, reluctantly, leads me to the conclusion that there is really no litter at the beach. It is a figment of somebody's imagination.)

RESPONSE ON THEATRE

Dear Sir:

It was with more than a little interest that I read Mrs. Barretto's letter in the 21 Feb. issue of the Pine Cone, since it is my partners and I who are attempting to bring a new motion picture theatre to Carmel (one that is locally owned and operated).

We feel our proposed theatre will provide the necessary competition Mrs. Barretto writes of, to keep a continual flow of quality motion pictures in Carmel. We further intend to bring back to Carmel the Saturday matinee kiddie shows which have been absent for three years.

Although no one motion picture appeals to every one who attends the theatre, it is our intention that our customers' opinions will be the basic consideration in the selection of all films.

Very truly yours,
Tom Graff

LIBRARY

Dear Sir:

In all fairness I feel that the recent letter to the Pine Cone regarding the library should not go unchallenged. From time to time I have requested from our library books which did not appear on their shelves. In each and every case the book was obtained for me most promptly. Considering that, of necessity, a certain amount of work is involved in locating and mailing the book I think that to demand immediate service is highly unreasonable.

For my part I commend our Carmel library as well as the County and State libraries both for their efficient service and for their excellent choice of books.

Very sincerely yours,
Josephine Zane

THE TRAGEDY OF HERMAN

Dear Sir:

Only in Carmel do we have a police force which so well reflects the feelings and emotions of the people of their community.

Only here are dogs treated like people, instead of the other way around.

Just as an example: last Saturday our little dachshund, Herman, was run over by a hit-run driver on San Antonio (the speedway for tourists).

While rushing him to his old

CRITICAL JUDGEMENT OF 'HIGH JUSTICE'

. . . With all allowance for lack of experience, all allowance for lack of space on a small stage, all allowance for exchange of principals at the last moment, and proper business of tragic drama, the lack of atmosphere, illusion, intonation and enunciation, the production became a dead level farce robbed of both its punch and point.

Carmel is not provincial. It is composed of cosmopolites used to old world customs, life and language, ancient and modern. Cannot those who are eager to assist, as the discreet French say, at productions to help build the Little Theatre, be given intelligent value for their money? It is time.

GRIM REAPERS CALLS PIONEER

Business houses were closed in Carmel while the funeral services for Mrs. Agnes D. Signor were being held last Tuesday.

REALTY NEWS — $550.00, 40 x 100 feet, east side of Camino Real, between 11th and 12th avenues. Big group of pines on the lot; splendid building site. R. C. DeYoe.

OCEAN AVENUE IMPROVED AT LAST

All the barriers, hurdles and fences on the Ocean Avenue roadway and intersections have been removed and one can now drive anywhere in Carmel without detouring.

Not so, however, on the sidewalks. In front of quite a number of business places work is under way in the putting down of concrete sidewalks by Sydney Ruthven. Chicken-wire fences have been placed around these walks, and occasionally one is compelled to tread the straight and narrow on a single plank.

It was amusing to observe the group of young men in attendance when an old plank sidewalk was being removed. The hope that coin was present was frequently realized, one treasure-seeker picking up $1.80 where the cracks once were.

Search Wins Gem

Last Monday night, following a dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Flanders, Mrs. Opal Heron and Fredrick Preston Search proceeded to Salinas and were married. Judge David Wallace tied the knot and Phil Wilson, Jr., was best man. Both are musicians of ability and will remain permanently in Carmel.

STATE Income TAX Question

QUESTION: When and where should I file my State personal income tax return?

ANSWER: If your return is based on calendar year 1962, it must be filed no later than April 15.

Some taxpayers keep books on a fiscal year basis. If you are one of these taxpayers, your return must be filed by the 15th day of the fourth month following the close of your taxable year.

Remember: The law imposes penalties and interest for failing to file a return or for failing to file a return by the deadline.

You may personally file your return and pay your tax at any of the 13 Franchise Tax Board offices located throughout California. But State Controller Alan Cranston, chairman of the Franchise Tax Board, suggests that you mail your return, along with whatever tax may be due, directly to the main office of the Franchise Tax Board at 1025 P Street, Sacramento 14, California.

friend, Dr. Marasco, up Ocean Avenue, my wife and I were confronted with the usual Saturday (traffic) jam.

Officer Fisher (one of the twins), sensing our dilemma, sirened the traffic to a halt and escorted us all the way to the vet's office where, to our sorrow, Herman expired.

Both we and our children grieve just a little less by knowing that in this wonderful community in which we are privileged to live, a little dog's life is just as important to an harassed policeman as the solving of our customary weekend traffic jam.

Gratefully,
Walter C. Gorey

(Editor's Comment: There is something both warm and tragic about Mr. Gorey's letter. If you have to ask what it is, you are out of touch with humanity, and you haven't lived very long in Carmel. Or, perhaps you've lived here too long.)

NO PASS—NO NOTHIN'

Officer Pete Koenen of Carmel's police force had a sad bit of duty on Tuesday morning. While on a routine patrol along the beach he spotted a disconsolate figure which upon closer check proved to be a very young soldier in a soiled uniform. A lone soldier sitting on a rock at 7:45 in the morning is not a cheerful sight in itself and coupled with the disheveled uniform he was naturally suspect. Officer Koenen checked out his ID and pass to discover they were as missing as the soldier had been for seven days. Fresh off the farm and homesick, the seventeen year old absentee went sadly along with the M.P.'s when they arrived to take him back to Fort Ord.

HOPING?

Hope is the enemy of all mankind. It furrows the brow and wrinkles the face. A man's face is placid and kind and relaxed only when he is deep in sleep. That is because he is no longer hoping.

Don't Shoot! Just Write Two Takes and Stick To The Facts

Most crimes—including journalism—are characterized by a sort of horrible impulsiveness, which seems inexplicable. The victim—or society on his behalf—is, however, usually more fascinated by vengeance than by explanations. This is why, provoked by continued outrages, vigilante committees are sometimes formed, and somebody is summarily hanged.

But the corporate response to outrage, even repeated outrage, is curiously different. Take, for instance, the matter of bank holdups in San Francisco, which occur with satisfactory regularity week after week. The corporation response is careful, objective, and curiously remote from primitive notions of vengeance.

Wells Fargo, which used to mount another shotgun on the stage coach when beleaguered by thugs, now turns to the press release, and crime becomes accessory to the fact. A recent dispatch from Mr. Hal R. Strass, Assistant Vice President, Public Relations Department, sounds at first almost as if it were intended as incitement. The beginning paragraph reads, "Here is an up-to-date directory for contacting our branches on holdups. Let us know if you'd like more copies."

It is at once evident, of course, that this is not a suggestion that holdups are negotiable as to time and place. It merely explains, for the benefit of press, radio and TV, how the bank handles the public relations aspects of nasty—but newsy—things like holdups.

It is an engrossing study and may comfort some as a landmark in corporate objectivity, as nice a skirting of moral hazards as we've come across in some time:

GENERAL POLICY

It is to our advantage to cooperate fully with the press in the event of a bank holdup. Failure to do so will almost invariably result in adverse publicity.

WHAT TO EXPECT

Your press relations problems will begin within minutes after the holdup. The press will often arrive on the scene as soon as the police, possibly even before.

You will be confronted not only with the press but also with the police, the FBI, and possibly with customers and others. If you are organized to meet the problem you will be more likely to make a good impression and earn the goodwill of all concerned.

STATION SOMEONE AT THE DOOR

The doors are normally locked immediately after a holdup. A member of the staff should be stationed at the door and instructed to open it for members of the press as well as for police and FBI agents.

RESTRICTED AREAS

Tellers work areas, cages and vaults are restricted areas to which no one may have access except persons whose duties require their presence there. Members of the press should have free access to the officers' platform area and the bank lobby only.

DESIGNATE A SPOKESMAN

The manager is normally the spokesman. It is likely, however, that he may be called upon to work with the police and FBI. To ensure good press relations, the Manager may wish to name one or two officers or responsible members of the staff to serve as spokesman, at least until he is free to do so himself.

GENERAL INFORMATION ABOUT THE CRIME

General information about the holdup should be released without hesitation. There are exceptions regarding specific points of information. These are discussed below.

THE AMOUNT STOLEN

"How much was stolen?" will probably be the first question asked by the press. It is a key question (from the standpoint of the press) because the amount usually determines the gravity of the crime and the news value of the story. In rare circumstances you may know almost the exact amount

POLITICS

ASSEMBLYMAN ALAN G. PATTEE is beaming about at least one feature of Governor Brown's gargantuan 1963-64 budget, a $6,462,628 appropriation for continued development of the new Santa Cruz campus of the University of California, scheduled to commence accepting students in 1965 into its unusual residential college system. $3,347,000 of the first appropriation will pay for the construction of the Physical Sciences unit. Already, the non-existent school has an operating budget of $493,729, largely in support of academic deans and staff, in support of physical planning, establishment of curricula, and commencement of faculty recruitment.

OUR FRESH CONGRESSMAN, Burt L. Talcott, settled at last in the warren of Washington, D.C., has looked about him and come up with the conclusion that the President's tax reduction and reform proposal will prove to be the most complex and controversial problem — an inescapably obvious conclusion. Talcott, seeming to want to say something in a hurry, while admitting he has given insufficient study to the matter to take a stand, ends up hopefully (though vaguely) saying, "Don't spend it until you get it."

This is a handy little phrase. A harassed Talcott may yet wheel it out another day, to meet an unexpected funeral, potluck dinner, or National Birdseed Week.

THE CARMEL WOMEN'S DEmocratic Club was in Sacramento yesterday, at the invitation of Senator Fred S. Farr, for a briefing by various departments of State government. Farr, pursuing the theory that "the more people know about State government, the better they can help their legislators," plans similar session for other groups.

In the meantime, worried about a per capita cost of juvenile delinquent inmates in state institutions of $15,000 per inmate, Farr expresses himself as hopefully impressed with alternative to incarcerations: conferences, night and week end sentencing, resolving caseload and recruitment problems in the probation field . . .

THE STATE WITHHOLDING TAX BATTLE is getting stickier, particularly for its fond sponsor, Governor Brown. Now State Controller Alan Cranston, a staunch stolen. If you are convinced your estimate is accurate, it is permissible to release the figure as promptly as possible, but QUALIFIED AS AN ESTIMATE.

Make it a point to remind the press that the amount stolen is fully covered by insurance.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BANDIT

Questions from the press about the description of the bandit should be answered only by the police or FBI. Police authorities will question all witnesses, piece together the best possible description and then release it to the press. The publishing of an accurate description often helps in apprehending the bandit. Therefore such questions by the press should be referred to the police or FBI for answer.

INTERVIEWS WITH STAFF MEMBERS

Interviews with staff members are permitted, but should be conducted under the supervision of the official spokesman.

The press will respect your wish to safeguard the security of your staff.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Interior and exterior photographs of the bank should be permitted, but should not show the tellers' work area.

The Manager and other officers should permit photographs of themselves. Staff members should not be urged or required to pose for pictures. They may do so if they wish, but should be reminded that they may be under tension at the moment and may later regret the publicity.

Staff members should not be photographed in re-enactment of the crime.

RADIO AND TELEVISION INTERVIEWS

There may be requests for radio interviews to be recorded at the scene of the holdup. The same cooperation should be extended to radio representatives as to the press.

It is desirable that only the Manager, or an officer designated by him, serve as official spokesman in radio interviews.

While it is our desire to cooperate with television representatives, there is some element of personal risk involved if a person directly concerned with the holdup appears before the television camera. The Manager may, in his own discretion, accept or decline requests for such interviews.

INFORMATION NOT TO BE GIVEN OUT

Information not to be disclosed to the press includes:

a. Description of the bandit (see above);

b. Anything that might hinder police and FBI in apprehending the bandit;

c. Details about physical evidence in the hands of the authorities;

d. Cash overlooked by the robber;

e. Action taken by staff members to prevent a greater loss;

f. Details of the alarm and the security system;

g. Anything else that might aid future holdup men.

USE OF TELEPHONES

The press should be permitted to use telephones in the platform area.

You will gain goodwill of press representatives if, when they arrive on the scene, you point out the locations of telephones and invite their use.

INFORMING YOUR STAFF

Press relations procedures outlined here should be reviewed at staff conferences. Doing so will help to reduce the confusion which inevitably prevails after a holdup.

Theatre Training

White Oaks Theatre will begin the spring semester of its training center on Monday, 11 March.

Sally Church, founder and director, announces that Gale Peterson and Maria Anderson will return to head the dance department.

Eleanor Stoltz and Shirly Eoff will instruct classes in drama and actors' workshop, and Miss Anderson will offer creative dramatics for children.

Mr. Peterson, a graduate of San Francisco State College, will be remembered for his directing of past White Oaks Productions, and for his dance performances. He will teach classes in modern dance.

Maria Anderson, whose credits include numerous acting and dancing roles in motion picture and television films, as well as a wide range of theatrical engagements, will teach classes in ballet.

Eleanor Stoltz, also from San Francisco State, and a part time member of its faculty, will, with Miss Eoff, handle the White Oaks classes in drama and workshop.

Shirly Eoff has appeared in the White Oaks Summer Theatre and has been the director of Children's Theatre productions during the past three years.

Symphony Soloist

The brilliant young piano virtuoso, Jean Casadesus, will be soloist at the Monterey County Orchestra's next concert in Sunset Auditorium on 19 March, at 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Casadesus, who will perform the Tschaikowsky Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, is the son of the celebrated musicians, Robert and Gaby Casadesus, and was born in Paris in 1927. He first studied with his great-aunt, Rose Casadesus, later worked at the Paris Conservatory with his father. Moving to the United States with his family in 1940, he made his debut as soloist under Eugene Ormandy in March, 1947, having won the Philadelphia Orchestra Youth Contest. The following fall he won the First Medal at the Geneva International Competition, and since then he has toured frequently throughout Europe. In the spring of 1954 he made his first appearances in Latin America.

Jean Casadesus has appeared with the New York Philharmonic, Philadelphia Orchestra, Chicago Symphony, Cleveland Symphony and the San Francisco Symphony, as well as in innumerable recitals throughout this country and Canada. On the radio he has been heard on the Telephone Hour and the New York Philharmonic Symphony's broadcasts. At present he records for Angel Records and RCA Victor.

The symphony will also perform Ravel's "Le Tombeau De Couperin" and Haigh's "Music for Orchestra". Because a capacity audience is anticipated, symphony officials urge those interested in attending the concert to make their reservations early. Tickets are available at the Browse Around Record Shop in Carmel or by calling MA 4-4125.

Carefree Comedy

Certainly not recommended to those suffering from any infliction jeopardizing laughter, "Chicken Every Sunday", presented last week end at the Naval Postgraduate School, will be performed on Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. in King Hall. (Special mention must be made that this auditorium distinguishes itself by seating comfortably even the tallest male demanding unlimited leg room).

Comedy relies on pace, restrained sufficiently to allow the audience to luxuriate in its appreciation. Last Friday the performance maintained a slickness which rarely lapsed, with the result that the three hours slipped by unnoticed amidst spontaneous laughter.

Emily Blachman has turned her house into a boarding house to give the security which her husband's uncontrollable urge to speculate fails to do. Unknown to her, Jim Blachman is forced to take out a mortgage on her beloved house. With the audience aware of this situation there are an unlimited supply of amusing incidents, further complicated by "way out" boardinghouse characters. The supporting cast supplies quantity and quality. Each character is well-rounded: there is no weak link. Jake, an aged prospector, is made to relish exploiting the awkward moments by Mallie Moore, Rita Kirby, a nymphomaniac divorcee is glamorously portrayed by Jef Short; Mimi Brown shows her characterization talents in the maid, Evie May; and Wendy Dorsky makes the most of the short appearances of Milly Moon—a frustrated vaudeville actress. The Indian, the Spaniard and the Blachman children are completely at home in their parts.

Charlotte Maas succeeds in creating a warm and attractive wife winning our sympathy as she strives to cope with Rosemary, her eldest daughter (Joani Baldwin), who imagines herself in love with a pompous young man from Boston (Erv Ames), with Miss Gilley (Louise Williamson) the fluttery spinster who, it later turns out, has secretly married Mr. Robinson (Gig Conaughton) and with Miss Sally (Peggy Webster) who devotes her time to cold cream and long sessions in the bath, much to the annoyance of the other guests. Ralph Spaulding plays the husband, helplessly swept up in business enterprises, with conviction. Together the Blachmans make an excellent pivot round which the play evolves. —S. H. T.

Circle Theatre

Rosamond Zammit and Nick Zanides have leading roles in "The Tenth Man," Paddy Chayefsky's play which opens Friday at the Circle Theatre. Frederick Rider and Allan Weinfield will be the other familiar performers among a large cast.

Chayefsky derives both humor and drama from the confrontation of faith-starved young people, abjectly dependent upon their psychiatrists, with devout old men who use their synagogue as a hiding-place from the world. Among the latter will be Werner Pundt, Mendel Johnsen, Leon Eisner and Robert Grossman. They play elderly members of a Long Island community who attempt to deal with a case of violent schizophrenia by applying the rituals of exorcism practised by their people for centuries past. Their hair-raising ceremony produces quite unexpected results.

David Dunstone and Norton Goldman will be seen as the rabbi and sexton of the synagogue. Daniel Morse and Lee Hogan play a pair of bewildered bystanders, and Mark Starr impersonates a New York policeman.

"The Tenth Man" begins its run with a benefit for the Monterey Unitarian Church, and closes it on 14 April with a benefit for Congregation Beth Israel. It will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights throughout the six-weeks run.

"RIGOLETTO" AN ENJOYABLE EVENING; BUT DOES VERDI "GO" IN ENGLISH?

By Valentine Miller

Although it wasn't the Met or the San Francisco Opera, the traveling Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre, produced and staged by Boris Goldovsky, gave Carmel Music Society ticket holders a run for their money on Saturday night. Everyone in Sunset School auditorium seemed to enjoy "Rigoletto," nodding appreciatively at the familiar arias, and applauding warmly.

It was an entertaining, melodious evening. The sets were decorative, although less literally-designed, more impressionistic, ones would perhaps better suit the far-fetched tale. The 17th century costumes were bright and attractive. The voices were well-trained; a first-rate orchestra was sympathetically conducted by Edward Alley; and always Giuseppe Verdi's enchanting music soothed the ear when the melodramatic goings-on of Acts III and IV began to pall.

In considering an operatic production, one naturally first thinks of voices. Or perhaps, in Sunset auditorium, one should first think of acoustics. The Carmel music lover's dream is to wake up some evening in a properly designed and engineered auditorium capable of accomodating full-sized symphonies and operas. As it is, Saturday's audience was very much aware of the orchestra (an excellent one, to be sure) in front of the stage, while the singers' voices took wing and vanished somewhere among the rafters. On the whole, the men sounded superior to the women, and Sherrill Milnes's Rigoletto was an outstanding performance.

A word about translation. What is the advantage of an opera's being sung in anything but its original language? The often preposterous plots become almost ludicrous when every word is understood; and in the case of Verdi, the flowing, lyric quality is impaired. This English version of "Rigoletto," translated by Boris Goldovsky and Sarah Caldwell, sounded clumsy and ill-suited to Verdi's airy, melodious style. It seems a pity to deprive the opera of a small but essential musical ingredient — the Italian language. And how many of the audience thought that Andre Montel (the Duke of Mantua) was singing, "Men are so fickle?" If he was in fact singing, "Women are so fickle," the first syllable was lost (acoustics again?). The original phrase, "La donna e mobile," refers to woman, or womankind. Furthermore, "fickle" is about as awkward and unmusical a word as any in the dictionary. This is carping, perhaps, but the original spirit of a lyric work seemed to be greatly diminished in the translation.

Boris Goldovsky is to be highly praised for his production, and the Carmel Music Society for bringing us a taste of grand opera. It is hoped that when the Peninsula has an auditorium worthy of the name, we shall have a return engagement.

Alcan Honored

Alcan Pacific Co., waging a battle at the bridge in Carmel Valley over commercial traffic to its Carmel Hacienda retirement home, has received, on another front, a seldom-bestowed honor, the U.S. Navy commendation for performance in the construction of a 150-unit housing project in La Mesa Village, Monterey, a job finished five months ahead of schedule.

The Navy lays down 14 exacting demands for qualification for the award. Captain J. J. McGarraghan, 12th Naval District Public Works Officer, in making the award, noted that Alcan had met all demands "in absolute fulfillment, and without qualifications."

To Buy Books

The elementary schools P-TA is holding a book fair for the Woods School library, in an effort designed to duplicate the successful institution of a similar library at River School.

From 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., on 12 March, the Woods School library — shelved but bookless — will be open and lists of books deemed by teachers as desireable for the school will be on hand. A book may be purchased from the list, and the donor's name will be placed on bookplates in each of the books.

Coffee and dessert will be served in the cafeteria, and the affair is presented for the enjoyment of the entire family.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

A Bible lesson on the subject "Man" will be read this Sunday at First Church of Christ, Scientist, Carmel.

Scriptural selections will include these verses from Psalms (90: 1,16): "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. . . Let thy work appear unto thy servants, and thy glory unto their children."

Correlative readings will emphasize the Christian Science teaching that man's real identity is not material, but found in God as His spiritual image and likeness — what St. Paul referred to as "the new man" (Eph. 4:24). Included will be this passage from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 90): "The admission to one's self that man is God's own likeness sets man free to master the infinite idea."

OIL COMPANY SHARES IN WESTERN GROWTH

Continued population growth of the West should, in our opinion, generate additional growth for this western oil producer and marketer. The company, which is a strong and integrated organization, seems, in our opinion, headed for continued improvement following a substantial increase in earnings last year. Our current reports highlights the company's operations and points to posibilitie of additional earnings in 1963. For your copy write or call our nearest office.

. . . The Wrap-Up

Mr. Kip Stuart, distinguished furniture designer, has bought the Maude Stewart property on San Carlos south of Ocean Avenue. Purchase price, $95,000. August Nieto is developing plans for an elegant court . . . The Carmel Motel Association, through spokesman Carl Bosholm, last night gave the City Council—and the City—an example of candor and mature responsibility which should serve forever as a lesson on how to achive respect. "Maybe we were wrong," said Bosholm for his group which had bitterly opposed the enactment last year of the 3% hostelry tax. "We have no cause, on the basis of the first 3 months' experience to ask now that the tax be repealed. And if it proves not detrimental, and is good for the city, we will be glad to collect it." An appreciative council decided to wait for another 3 months' experience to accumulate before examining the operation of the tax . . . The deft hand of Councilman Frank Putnam, stirring furiously in the gas station overlay zone mess, finally found the hard core of contention, and with a brief committee report last night laid Hamlet, the ghost and indecision to rest. On his recommendation, the Council struck the southwest corner of Mission and 7th, and the Southeast corner of San Carlos and 7th from the ordinance, and thereafter completed its reading without opposition. Shell Oil, as a result, may get the better station it sought, and Mobile's plan for a sterile reconstruction will probably be locked. Standard Oil never did get in under the wire . . It was brinkmanship for a week, but some of the most furious politicking in many a year saved the city from a blight sight . . .

that now requires doing, a wonderful assortment of governmental functions squats on the desk of the Clerk, waiting in leering confusion to be dispatched.

Agendas and minutes, files and correspondence, consultation and advice, technical studies and parliamentary discrimination, law without a license and license (dog, business, gun, taxi and lodging) seemingly without law; budgeting and accounting; purchasing and fund management, personel and retirement, workmen's compensation and health insurance—all of these jobs have to be attended to.

In addition, the Clerk in Carmel has to be able to sweep, paint, patch, sew on buttons, blow noses, serve coffee, write thank-you notes and clear up disputes.

Furthermore, he has to be able to give compassionate solace to people wanting to get married, protesting traffic tickets, trying to find a hotel room, wanting to get into Hearst Castle; play golf free at Pebble Beach, surreptitiously poison his neighbor, get his property rezoned, annex San Francisco, rescue a cat from a tree, get his competitor taxed out of business, have a tree planted in the middle of the street, have a tree removed from the middle of the street, give his great aunt's ashes to the city, give his great aunt to the city, get the seaweed off the beaches, the tourists out of town, the sidewalk fixed, the storm drain repaired and Christmas moved up to the Fourth of July. You get the idea, I think.

And they come to the office of the Clerk to see these things done, because it is THEIR office, the one single organ of local government belonging exclusively to them that is not divided into five parts.

People see the Clerk—indeed, they insist that he be—an intermediary, advisor and servant, preserved in a mystical way against avarice, prejudice and the whole galaxy of human frailties; but nonetheless able, if properly approached, to get ANYTHING done.

The Clerk is thus burdened with both the suspicion and confidence of the people that he can contrive, and the conviction of the City Council—born out by results—that he spends most of his time doing it.

I shall miss this office.

And on the shoulders of my successor I lay this fierce burden: Avoid partisanship, but never surrender the right to be partisan; when advising, expose all sides; urge the example of our history as well as the expediency of the moment; have an unassailable sense of continuity; respect the past and hasten the future; make your experience broad, your knowledge deep, your patience limitless; remember why you are in office and to whom the office belongs.

And further, keep your powder dry.

Storm Clouds . . .

Commission count last fall showed an average of 10,000 cars per day passing the checkpoint at Rancho Fiesta. There are, of course, many more cars coming over Los Laureles Grade which is farther up the Valley.

There are 15 or more motels and lodging houses to care for the summer influx of 10,000 to 15,000 visitors. This is not a true criterion, however. Many visitors descend upon friends and acquaintances. House guests for the weekend, house pests if they stay longer.

All signs and portents indicate that this coming season will be almost explosive. Harry Gillette and the Rancho Del Monte Country Club are adding 30 units to their establishment. That's correct. Thirty. They also plan to close their membership by May, 1963. This is long before the swimming season really starts.

Reuben Hampton, of Reuben's Dinner House, is looking forward to the busiest season in the history of Carmel Valley. His business has increased more than tenfold since he took over six years ago. In addition, his gross for the month of March, 1963, equals July, 1962, the middle of the summer rush.

He had this to say before leaving for a two-weeks fishingsojourn in the Sacramento River Delta . . . "Carmel Valley can no longer be considered a seasonal area. People have now developed the habit of coming to the Valley and driving into Carmel for a visit. This alone reverses the trend of past years.

"The Alcoholic Beverage Board will no longer issue seasonal licenses up here. They consider that business is done on a year-round basis in Carmel Valley. A large theatre is planned for the Village; certain other areas have been designated and zoned for light business.

"I'm taking this vacation now because I'm certain that from now on I'll be busy-busy-busy.

"There's only one thing I dread," he chuckled. "In country living, people dress casually in old, comfortable clothes, and now with urban living hard upon us, I suppose we will be subjected to men's bony, hairy shanks hanging out of Berbudas, and fat women totally and tightly enclosed in toreador pants. This type of apparel is de trop in the country as a sign of affectation, but in smart urban living it is the 'in' thing."

He shook his head sadly. "I appreciate the business I've done and I expect it to greatly increase in the immediate future. But I'm afraid that the old Carmel Valley we have known and loved is about to disappear. Progress has been nipping at its heels for a long time and I am sure the next year or two will see the switch from Western saddles and hitching posts, to hunting saddles and cries of 'Tally Ho, the fox!'

"With all these shopping centers springing up, maybe we will soon be able to get into an argument such as is happening in Monterey at this time. First you have the country. Then you bring the city to the country. Then you demolish all of the buildings and rebuild for 'country living.'

"I don't get it; but it's progress."
